

Spring in North Lake Tahoe

Dual-sport days, wellness and culture

Spring in North Lake Tahoe allows visitors to experience the best of winter and summer, while practicing mindfulness and finding your “true North.” Enjoy a dual-sport day with a morning of ski/ride, followed by an afternoon of a wildflower hike or a kayak/SUP tour. Try one of the region’s many yoga studios, or pamper yourself at a mountain spa. Take a solitary nature walk, visit a cultural museum or indulge in boutique, luxury shopping.

Top 5 Spring Activities: North Lake Tahoe gets 251 days of sunshine year round. Get outside, soak up the sun and go on a high-altitude adventure with these top spring activities.

1. Wildflower Hiking + Biking: Take a hike or bike ride through North Lake Tahoe’s many mountain valleys and trails, which bloom with multi-colored wildflowers and majestic purple lupines. The best wildflower spots include Eagle Lake Trail or Marlette Lake Trail. Visitors can also bike along the scenic Truckee River Bike Path, a 25 mile system of paved trails.
2. Touch the Lake: Take a clear-bottom kayak tour with Clearly Tahoe, or rent a kayak or SUP from one of the many lakeside outfitters.
3. Golf: Swing on the same greens as icons including Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra and Joseph P. Kennedy. Enjoy history, panoramic views and championship golf courses throughout North Lake Tahoe.
4. Spa / Yoga: Indulge in an apres spa day at one of the region’s secluded alpine spas. Or, opt to rejuvenate with an on-mountain yoga session at Tahoe Flow Arts, the Yoga Room or Squaw’s renowned Wanderlust Studio.
5. Museums: Visit the Tahoe Maritime Museum for a look into the region’s maritime culture. Take a step back in time at the Olympic Museum which documents the 1960 Squaw Winter Olympics. Or, explore Gatekeeper’s Museum, the site of an ancient Washoe campsite.
